Tired Putin troops low on supplies

UKRAINE is turning the tide against "exhausted" Russian forces, one of Britain's top spies claims.

Despite the missile attacks on targets across Ukraine on Monday, Sir Jeremy Fleming (above) – boss of the GCHQ snooping station – said Moscow is running out of ammo.

An he said President Putin's decision-making has proved "flawed".

The intelligence chief added that the UK and its allies are at a defining moment when it comes to China.

The director of the intelligence, cyber and security agency said the costs to Russia of the war in Ukraine, in terms of both people and equipment, are "staggering" as early gains are now reversed.

Sir Jeremy said: "We know, and Russian commanders on the ground know, their supplies and munitions are running out."

Maddie suspect on sex charges

PROSECUTORS have charged a 45-year-old German man, who is a suspect in the Madeleine McCann case, with child sex offences allegedly committed in Portugal.

The offences took place between December 2000 and June 2017.

"The accused is the same person against whom charges were brought in connection with the disappearance of Madeleine Beth McCann," the prosecutor's office said in a statement.

The office did not say whether the charges related to the McCann case.

HOUSE PRICES 'READY TO CRASH'

HOUSE prices are overvalued by about 30 per cent and could CRASH at any moment, according to a new warning of impending doom.

The analysis by Oxford Economics – based on the affordability of the average house, relative to mortgage payments and earnings since 2000 – will show that affordability has fallen over the past few weeks as underlying funding costs for lenders have risen.

Oxford Economics' conclusions will add to concerns about turmoil in the property market that followed the government's announcement of plans for big tax cuts.

Its analysis does not figure households' higher outgoings in light of inflation being at a 40-year high, so the true picture may be even WORSE. But the research portrays a "powerful message", Oxford Economics said.

The rate on a five-year fixed mortgage rose above 6% for the first time in 12 years, and on two-year fixes for the first time in 14 years. Senior executives from banks and building societies met Chancellor Kwasi Kwarteng for talks on how mortgage holders might be helped.

Oxford Economics said last week that in major economies "overall, this is the most worrying outlook for the housing market since 2007-2008, with markets poised between the prospect of modest declines and much steeper ones".

It has also warned that a UK house prices crash "is looking increasingly likely" after the mini-budget.

Bank of England in new emergency moves over 'material risk' to financial system...

IT'S ALL GOING TO SHIT!

NEW MOVE: The Bank Of England is trying to calm panic in the city

ANOTHER day...another crisis.

The Bank of England yesterday warned of a "material risk" to financial stability as it made a fresh emergency move in a bid to calm investors.

The Bank said it would buy more government bonds to try and stabilise market conditions.

The emergency scheme started after September's mini-budget, which spooked markets and drove up borrowing costs.

Costs of Government borrowing rose again sharply after the Bank said the scheme would indeed end as planned on Friday.

A decision by the chancellor "Kami" Kwasi Kwarteng to bring forward his new plan to balance the government's finances by three weeks also failed to reassure investors.

By COLIN HURST

In the wake of the September mini-budget, the pound slumped to a record low, government borrowing costs surged and the Bank of England was forced to step in and take emergency action after the dramatic market movements put some pension funds at risk of collapse.

The market volatility eased but on Monday government borrowing costs were almost at the levels seen at the height of the market turmoil.

Emergency

The central Bank said government bonds had seen a "significant repricing" since the start of the week and warned there was a risk of a fresh downturn in markets.

It said it would now buy a wider range of bonds as well as continue to buy bonds as part of the original emergency measures it launched on 28 September.

The Bank's move is intended to prevent the whole economy disappearing up its own arsehole and sparking another major crisis.

The move came as the Institute for Fiscal Studies think tank warned that Mr Kwarteng must make "big and painful cuts" of up to £60bn to balance the books when he announces his economic plan on Halloween.

The spokesman said: "We are currently not seeing any discernible change in behaviour and that momentum is continuing. "People are most likely to be assessing their big-ticket spending and still want to keep up their normal socialising – like going to the pub. We are in a good position."

TODAY'S WEATHER

A WET start for Northern Ireland, Scotland and northern England with rain gradually moving south.

The south-east of England should stay dry with some sunshine.

Temperatures of 16C in London, 15C in Cardiff, 14C in Manchester, 14C in Belfast and 13C in Edinburgh.

Thursday is unsettled.

THREE-DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK

with rain arriving from the west with showers spreading to all parts.

Temperatures of 13C in London, 12C in Cardiff, 12C in Manchester, 12C in Belfast and 11C in Edinburgh.

OUTLOOK: Unsettled.

...BUT AT LEAST JOBLESS FIGURES ARE DOWN (though pay slumps, too)

THE jobless rate fell to 3.5% in the three months to August, the Office for National Statistics (ONS) said and the unemployment rate to its lowest for nearly 50 years.

The number of job vacancies fell again, although the level is still high with many firms struggling to recruit and fill vacancies.

However, the squeeze on pay remains, with rises in regular wages failing to keep up with the rising cost of living. ONS top economics boffin David Freeman said the number of people neither working nor looking for work had continued to rise.

The economic inactivity rate increased to 21.7% in the June to August period, the ONS said, with those inactive because they are long-term sick hitting a record high of nearly 2.5 million. Mr Freeman added: "While the number of job vacancies remains high after its long period of rapid growth, it has now dropped back a little."

"A number of employers are telling us they've reduced recruitment due to a variety of economic pressures."

Health Sec is 'clueless & hopeless'

LABOUR has accused Health Secretary Therese Coffey of being "clueless" after she was unable to say whether she is scrapping a plan to get England smoke-free by 2030.

Ms Coffey (above), the Deputy PM who is partial to a cigar, said she is "not aware" whether the target to get the adult smoking rate down to 5% or under has been axed.

The Government promised to publish a tobacco control plan "later this year" but sources claim ministers are expected to break the commitment.

Ms Coffey was unable to say whether this is the case or not, instead saying her priority is on her "ABCD" – ambulances, backlog, care, doctors and dentists – ambitions.

"I'm not aware any target has been scrapped. My focus right now is the ABCD," she said.

Her Labour shadow, Wes Streeting, said: "The Health Secretary is 'unaware' of a major plank of her own Government's health policy because she spends little time in her own department and most of her time firefighting in No.10. Clueless and hopeless."

Brits still going out for a pint

PUB group Marston's say strong sales have driven "encouraging" trading, despite cost pressures facing customers.

The drinks business, which operates 1,468 pubs and has 12,000 workers, said people are still visiting community pubs and it is optimistic for an important winter period, which will include the 2022 World Cup.

A spokesman said: "We are currently not seeing any discernible change in behaviour and that momentum is continuing.

"People are most likely to be assessing their big-ticket spending and still want to keep up their normal socialising – like going to the pub. We are in a good position."

POP GRANNY'S LATEST STUNT THRILLS FANS...

HAVE MADGE'S PINK PANTIES TURNED HER LESBIAN?

HINT HINT: Madonna rocks pink hair and pink apple-catchers

By SUZIE SHELDON news@sundaysport.co.uk

MADGE thrilled her more excitable fans after playfully hinting she's GAY while taking part in a new viral TikTok trend.

The Material Girl singer, 64, shared a clip of herself in her bathroom, attempting to throw a pair of hot pink panties into a bin – which is an online craze – and missing entirely.

"If I miss, I'm gay!" the mother-of-six captioned the post, which amassed 1.3 million views in the first hour alone.

It's unclear whether the star was simply joking or actually making a statement about her sexuality.

Madonna has only ever publicly dated men, including Tupac Shakur, Vanilla Ice, and Dennis Rodman.

She has been married twice – to Sean Penn (1985-1989) and decades later to director Guy Ritchie, with whom she has a son, Rocco, 22.

Madonna also had a relationship with dancer Carlos Leon, dad of her daughter Lourdes, 25.

While she has never publicly dated a woman, she did famously lock lips with Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera at the 2003 MTV Video Music Awards.

Fans were certainly perplexed by the latest video, with one asking: "Coming out at 64?"

Another added: "Did I just witness Madonna coming out? Well, good for her!"

Monkeys invade hospital

A MATERNITY hospital descended into chaos after it was invaded by a gang of vandal MONKEYS!

The troublesome langur monkeys evaded security and stormed into the Lady Loyal Women's District Hospital in Agra, India, sending expectant mums and ladies having their fannies tended fleeing for cover.

Security guards took SEVEN HOURS to clear an estimated 20 monkeys, after several ran into ventilation ducts or under patients' beds.

It's believed the simians invaded after getting a taste for hospital food.

Democrats 'concerned' over Biden

NEARLY two-thirds of Americans, including a majority of Democrats, now think President Biden is bonkers.

And majority of Democrats are now at least "somewhat concerned" about the President's mental health, according to a new poll.

The survey, by Issues & Insights/TIPP, shows 64 percent of Yanks are either "very concerned" or "somewhat concerned" about Joe Biden's mental well-being, up from 59% in early August.

Most notably, the number of Democrats unnerved by Biden's public struggles leapt 13% in two months, with 39% saying that they were "very" or "somewhat" concerned in early August, as 52% now believe the same.

The poll was among the first to ask about Biden's mental state since a gaffe in which he tried to recognise an Indiana congresswoman, forgetting she had died earlier this year.

Biden, who turns 80 next month, is the oldest man ever elected to the presidency.

NEW MOVIE ABOUT FAMED WRITER IS RELEASED THIS WEEK...

BRONTË-PHWOAR-US!

By HELEN McINTOSH

news@sundaysport.co.uk

OK, let's be blunt.

Emily is a movie for girls.

The film centres on the life of Emily Brontë and is set in 19th-century Yorkshire.

Emily was an English writer and poet but aside from having been described as an anti-social recluse with a particularly shy nature, little else is known about her.

Having enjoyed a very brief stint as a teacher, she later went on to write the famous book Wuthering Heights, a romantic tale about a pair of inseparable soulmates, Cathy and Heathcliff.

It was originally released in 1847 and 130 years later its title gave Brit crooner Kate Bush a huge pop hit.

How on earth they've managed to get a feature film out of that is anyone's guess.

But the title role is played by Emma Mackey, while a supporting role is taken by veteran British actress Gemma Jones.

And would you believe it, we have both showing their busters!

Now, just pray that the missus doesn't drag you along to see the movie... it's 2hrs 10mins long, since you ask!

SHAGGING ABOUT 'NOT TRENDY ANY MORE'

SHAGGING about is going out of fashion, according to a leading sex expert, who says that our love lives have changed dramatically since the pandemic.

Dr Justin Garcia, 37, leads the Kinsey Institute, a research body devoted to the study of human sexuality, founded in 1947 by sex boffin Dr Alfred Kinsey.

Dr Garcia said promiscuity is out of fashion, and while this is based on data from the US, Dr Garcia added 'I think it's happening globally'.

Data from the institute's Singles in America, which quizzes 5,000 Americans every year on their intimate lives, shows that two out of three singletons now prefer to wait until after the third date to have sex.

In addition, 81 per cent of men quizzed said they see sex as less important than they did before the pandemic.

According to the research, only 11 per cent of singletons say they want to date casually, while 62 per cent say they are more interested in finding a meaningful, committed relationship.

The report says: "We're not saying one-night-stands are gone for good, but they're definitely on the decline. And social distancing isn't the only explanation.

"The pandemic has initiated an appetite for more meaningful, steadfast and long-term relationships.

"And to the shock of many, young singles are embracing this trend the most... So how might this impact society moving forward? Only time will tell. But it's possible that this desire for commitment could lead to generations growing up with more family stability."

He also noted that people are dating with more 'intention', in other words, having a dating goal, and being clear about it, for example, wanting to be in a.

Meanwhile, those in committed relationships have also seen changes in their intimate life, according to Dr Garcia.

In a study published in 2020, he found that rather than people in relationships having more sex during the pandemic as predicted, frequency actually dipped by 43 per cent.

Jail for perv who w*nked on platform

A MAN who harassed women then furiously masturbated at a busy railway station has been jailed for two years.

Oliver Shoesmith, 40 (above), earlier pleaded guilty at Portsmouth Magistrates' Court to outraging public decency and possessing a Class B substance.

He was also handed a 10-year sexual harm prevention order at the city's Crown Court, and must sign the Sex Offenders' Register for 10 years.

The court heard that at 10am on August 17, Shoesmith got off a train at Portchester station and a member of rail staff noticed him approaching women on the platform.

The worker returned to her office and saw Shoesmith on CCTV unzipping his trousers and masturbating, while a woman with a pushchair stood with her young child on the opposite platform.

He tried to hide what he was doing under his bag and masturbated while staring at women who walked past.

The staff member reported the incident to British Transport Police who immediately arrested him. He was also found to be in possession of cannabis.

Country park hit by nude runner

LOCALS enjoying a stroll through a country park were stunned to see a naked man out for a run.

The nude runner was spotted on Great Central Way, a former railway line that is now a walking route in Leicester.

On the Aylestone Meadows Appreciation Society group's Facebook page, one woman wrote: "I'm a regular runner along the Great Central Way and passed a lot of runners today, but I was shocked when I saw a naked male runner pass me! He was just casually running without a care!"

Other members of the group added: "We saw him while walking the dogs. The police were a bit behind. They asked us if we'd seen him. I doubt they caught up with him!"

YOU SICK FAT BASTARD!

DOG NONCE:
Moore got five years

A FATSO nonce has been jailed for a string of vile acts of sex abuse against animals after police discovered video footage of him abusing his dog.

Douglas Moore, 34, was convicted of 24 counts of multiple sex offences, including having intercourse with an animal, at Manchester Minshull St Crown Court after cops saw "sickening" video of him physically and sexually abusing a dog. He was jailed for five years.

His electronic devices showed Moore also tried to set up meetings to abuse dogs and children and searched for chances to share material with other abusers. There was no evidence the meetings happened.

He was also found with cannabis and to be writing obscene articles online.

Moore is banned from owning animals and will be on the sex offenders' register for life.

Extreme

While investigating another offence, police found film of a dog being subjected to physical and sexual abuse.

The video was so distressing that senior officers had to be called in and a warrant was sought to rescue the animal, as well as arrest the offender.

Moore, of Manchester, was taken into custody at his Stockport home on November 8 2021, on suspicion of bestiality, possession of extreme porn and causing suffering to an animal.

The dog was found at the home and removed.

Specialists revealed Moore had been committing abhorrent sex acts on the dog for a long period of time and used the dark web to view even more extreme content of animals and humans.

Moore had also gone to great lengths to erase chat logs and website histories to conceal his gross offending.

The evidence against Moore was so extensive he had no option but to plead guilty.

The paedophile was convicted for intercourse with an animal, causing unnecessary suffering to a protected animal, and oral sex with a dead or alive animal.

He was also convicted of child sex offences including making an indecent photograph or pseudo-photograph of a child and attempting to arrange the commission of child sex offences.

He was convicted for possession of a controlled Class B drug and publishing an obscene online article.

PC Pete Howes, from the Online Child Sexual Abuse & Exploitation Command, said: "Upon discovery of the original video we took immediate action to identify Moore and save the dog."

"I am happy to say the dog is now safe and well."

"I'm pleased Moore is now in jail where he belongs."

CPS 'SORRY' AFTER RAPE CASE DROPPED

VIOLENT and sexual crimes are among cases wrongfully dropped by the Crown Prosecution Service in the past year.

It comes after the CPS apologised to a woman whose rape case was closed because of claims she had an episode of sexsomnia, a rare sleep condition.

Across England and Wales in the year to September 2022, a BBC probe has discovered 60 cases where a victim won a review against proceedings being terminated.

The CPS said calls to halt cases were never taken lightly.

The cases had been closed by the CPS "offering no evidence", which results in the accused being found officially not guilty, despite not appearing in front of a jury.

Each case could not be reopened because the defendants had already been cleared.

The figures include four sexual offences and 31 "offences against the person", which cover a range of violent offences from harassment to murder.

Fraud, burglary and robbery were also among terminated cases which, after victims asked for a review, the CPS admitted should have been prosecuted.

The law of "double jeopardy" means that after someone has been cleared of a crime, they cannot be tried for the same offence again without new evidence.

Amber living quietly... as a gunslinger

ACTRESS Amber Heard has been using a cowgirl pseudonym to keep out of the public eye as she holidays in Mallorca, Spain.

The 36-year-old (above) is renting a luxury villa under the name of gunslinger frontierswoman Martha Jane Cannary, aka Calamity Jane, in the wake of her legal loss to ex Johnny Depp in a highly-publicised defamation case.

Cannary was a sharpshooter in the 19th century, and was portrayed in HBO's series Deadwood.

The multimillion dollar villa, which lies deep in the Mediterranean island's interior in the historic town of Costix, is owned by disgraced local politician Maria Antonia Munar, who was released from prison in 2020 after serving seven years of a 14-year sentence on corruption charges.

The Aquaman actress was recognised by the locals immediately but has seamlessly blended into the community and has been mostly left alone.

Mad Kiwis to tax cow farts

NEW Zealand's smug government is to tax COW FARTS in what they say is a bid to slow global warming.

The Kiwi government said the farm levy would be a world first, and that farmers should be able to recoup the cost by charging more for climate-friendly products.

But farmers condemn the plan. Federated Farmers said the move would "rip the guts out of small town New Zealand".

Federated Farmers boss Andrew Hoggard said: "Our plan is to keep farming," Hoggard said. Instead, he said farmers would sell their farms "so fast you won't even hear the dogs barking on the back of the pickup truck as they drive off."

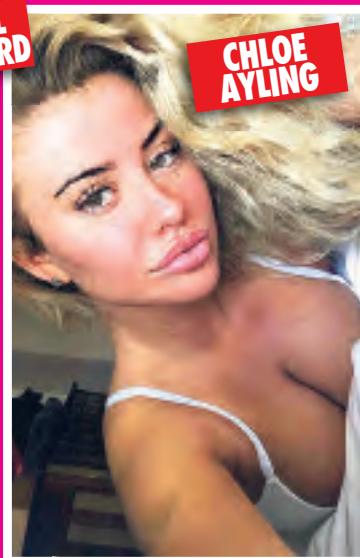

Opposition lawmakers said the plan would increase emissions by moving farming to other countries that were less efficient at making food.

Cruise space movie is out of this world

TOM Cruise is set to become the first actor to film a movie in OUTER SPACE.

The Hollywood action hero (above) has teamed up with The Bourne Identity director Doug Liman on a movie pitch that involves filming in space – first tabled in 2020 before the COVID pandemic halted plans.

Cruise, 60, and Liman are said to have reached out to Universal Filmed Entertainment Group on an idea which will see the Mission Impossible actor take a rocket ride up to the International Space Station.

"Tom Cruise is taking us to space, he's taking the world to space," UFEG Chairman Donna Langley said.

"That's the plan. We have a great project in development with Tom, taking a rocket up to the Space Station and shooting there."

It's thought the film will culminate in Tom's character "going up in to space to save the day", as Cruise could become the first civilian to do a space walk outside the space station.

MISS SENT PUPIL FINGERING VIDEO

CHARGED:
April Viney

By BRAD CHADWICK
news@sundaysport.co.uk

A TEACHER has been accused of sending a student a nude pic and a sexually explicit vid in which she FINGERS herself to completion, cops say.

Investigators said they received a report on April 22 about April Viney, 44 – an English teacher who has been working at West Iredell High School in Statesville, North Carolina, since 2019.

According to authorities, the victim was a former student of Viney's when he was a West Iredell lower school student.

At the time of the incident, the victim was enrolled as an online high school student.

After interviewing key witnesses, processing a mobile phone, and searching Viney's social media feeds, the sheriff's office nicknamed her and charged her with two counts of disseminating obscenity.

Viney declined to discuss the allegations but said she will be meeting with school bosses about her future employment at the school.

Some parents said they were incredulous that a teacher had been arrested.

One mother, Jessica Bailey, said: "You should definitely know better. You are here to protect the children and teach them. If you teach them bad habits from the start, how are they going to make it in life?"

GROSS

Another concerned parent added: "I don't like the fact, because it's just gross to me. She should know better because she's an adult."

The school district said Viney's suspension is subject to charges.

A District Court appearance is scheduled for October 26.

iPhone reckons rollercoaster fun is car accident!

A WOMAN'S new iPhone 14 Pro alerted police she was in a serious car crash and unresponsive, when in reality she was just enjoying a rollercoaster.

Sara White, 39, and her family were on a day trip last month to Kings Island, an amusement park near Cincinnati in Ohio, when she decided to brave the Mystic Timbers ride.

The dentist kept her two-day old phone inside her bum bag, as she was lifted 109ft into the air and spun around at 50mph.

Her iPhone's new car-crash detection feature picked up on the sudden acceleration and braking, and assumed she was in an accident.

By the time Sara got off the ride, she found her lock screen was littered with missed calls from an emergency dispatcher asking if she was OK.

ANAL BEADS ARE TOO NOISY FOR CHEATING

A TOP sex person has debunked the bizarre theory that teenage chess grandmaster Hans Niemann cheated in dozens of games with anal beads, claiming the sex toy is TOO NOISY.

Nookin columnist Dan Savage argued that if Niemann (below) had used the vibrating beads for assistance during chess tournaments his opponent would have heard them buzzing up the player's arse.

He also highlighted the fact that anal beads are a "blunt instrument" and would not be able to communicate something as complex as a chess move if a third party was operating it remotely via a wireless connection.

Savage, 57, a sex advice columnist, openly discusses sex, relationships, and sex toys on his weekly podcast Savage Love.

He addressed the topic on his show, amid speculation Niemann, 19, cheated on online games and used assistance in his shock victory against current world chess champion Magnus Carlsen, 31, last month at the Sinquefield Cup in St Louis.

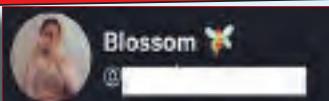

Savage said of anal beads: "There's an on switch and an off switch and you can adjust the intensity a little bit, but trying to use vibrating anal beads to communicate about something as complicated as a chess move?"

"That could not happen."

Cardiac at OAP home strip party

AN elderly woman had a heart attack after grinding up against three half-naked men at a nursing home's STRIPEASE party.

A video of the drama was posted online by Instagram influencer Nadia Cartagena, which starts off with a woman in a leather thong and boots twerking up against some of the men at the retirement home in Colombia.

It then cuts to scenes of half-naked men and women performing for the residents of Una Mano Amiga Foundation in El Prado, Cartagena.

The performers then go around and give the residents food - feeding one elderly lady a cake with a penis-shaped pastry on top and fake choking her with handcuffs.

But as the strippers continued to perform, surrounding one OAP lady in a blue dress and a pink headband with ears on them, she starts grabbing her chest and falling.

The strippers she was dancing sprung into action as they encouraged the elderly woman to drink as they tried to cool her off before an ambulance arrived at the scene and paramedics took her to hospital.

Today is not exactly No Bra Day. It's actually tomorrow.

But when it comes to celebrating a day when lovely ladies take their bras off, who's counting?

As it turns out, No Bra Day was not designed merely to thrill lusty gents, and there is a serious side to the annual event.

It's to promote breast cancer awareness so we're more than happy to give such a great cause a bit of advance publicity.

And we're doing that in the best way we know – by printing FIVE pages of babes shedding – or not wearing – their bras.

Enjoy...

#MY SEX FANTASY

'We collapsed on the floor in a sweaty mess'

MY sexual fantasy is to have sex in an apartment with big floor-to-ceiling windows overlooking a big, busy city.

I once pulled a hot bloke and we went back to his place where the living room was like that.

I'd just got there yet things went from nought to 100. He was so domineering. He told me to remove my dress and stand by the window.

I did what I was told and stood there in just my bra and tiny thong.

He spent what felt like ages staring at me and taking in the view, as it were. Then he ordered me to open my legs.

He ripped by knickers off and started licking my clit. It was absolute heaven.

Then he turned me around and began kissing the cheeks of my arse, as my breasts were pushed against the glass.

I wondered if anyone was watching us, and that idea was such a huge turn-on.

Unexpectedly, he gently opened by butt cheeks and flicked his tongue over my bumhole. I'd never had that done to me before. However, it felt amazing.

I rubbed my clit while he did this and begged for his cock inside me. He entered me from behind and thrusted inside me over and over.

We climaxed and then collapsed on the floor in a sweaty mess.

Fraudster on run walked into cop shop...for a job!

A FUGITIVE wanted for fraud was busted when she walked into a police station and asked for a JOB.

Zyeama Johnson, 27 (above), a former Postal Service worker from Jersey City, New Jersey, was on the run for the crime in Monroe County, Pennsylvania, when she applied to work at the Hudson County Sheriff's Office.

She sent in all her paperwork to be a security guard at the law enforcement agency and was called into the station under the guise of a job interview before being arrested, county Sheriff Frank Schillari said.

After the foolhardy fraudster was busted, officers discovered two stolen credit cards and she was also hit with credit card theft charges.

Prior to applying for the job, she was also wanted on 10 warrants for failure to appear in court on traffic charges in Jersey City.

A police source said: "Dumb doesn't even start to cover this."

"Easiest arrest we've had in years!"

WFH cops get £50k + dildos

SENIOR police investigators are being offered almost £50,000 to work from home while some receive discounts at retailers including a SEX TOY firm.

Avon and Somerset Constabulary is advertising for a 'Major and Statutory Crime Review Officer' to review cold cases with the opportunity to work from home, plus 'senior criminal intelligence analysts' on up to £43,000 a year.

A £47,359-a-year post advertised on job site Indeed, by British Transport Police, for a 'Force Events Lead' includes an allowance for the successful candidate to buy equipment for 'blended' and 'home working'.

It also offers a Blue Light Card discount scheme for savings at high street retailers including sex toy seller Lovehoney, Cineworld, Domino's, Alton Towers, Starbucks and JD Sports.

work for about 10 years. I finally started to jump into industry porn and got the courage to do it about two years ago, dead smack in the middle of the pandemic.

"I was never able to get an agent – I went through all the agencies and they politely declined taking me on."

Despite her success, she has spoken out in the past about the struggle of getting her fiancé – who is a porn director – to trust her with her work.

And if balancing an adult career with a relationship wasn't difficult enough, Misha revealed she often faces a struggle when finding new companies to work with because of her body art.

She said: "I've been doing sex

– I've had directors and producers say, 'I'm trying to get you into some of these scenes and they just won't go for it', which is crazy.

"People have these misconceptions that tattoos are so wildly popular and these beautiful tattoo models have massive online followings and are very successful."

"It's still the same as it was 20 years ago for the most part – it's extremely difficult to be tattooed in this industry, which people do not believe, but it is completely."

Despite facing these initial setbacks, Misha managed to land the role of chief brand officer, production manager, and in-house director for the Alt Erotic adult film company.

WITCHES TOLD ME TO TOSS DOG

A MAN accused of throwing a dog off a bridge – not once, but TWICE – said he was told to do so by WITCHES.

Authorities responded to a report of someone hurling a dog from a bridge over water on Highway 11 in the Fingerville area of Spartanburg County, South Carolina.

A witness told cops a man was tossing a dog off the bridge.

Officers searched in the area below the bridge and found a man – later identified as Shannon Lee Cantrell, 43 – holding a dog in a choke hold.

Cantrell told police that "witches" told him to throw the dog from the bridge.

Police said the dog was thrown twice and wet from being in the water below.

Cantrell also told officers the dog was his and released its ownership to Spartanburg County.

Officers determined the distance from the bridge to the ground was approximately 34ft. The one-year-old dog did not show any visible signs of injury but was "clearly shaken" by the incident, police said.

The dog was transported to Greenville County Animal Care for assessment.

Deputies with the Spartanburg County Sheriff's Office arrested Cantrell (right) and transported him to the Spartanburg County Detention Centre.

He now faces an animal cruelty charge.

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Everything's

SLY: Echo records every word we say

"WE are giving you a free month, as an apology," said the delightful lady from Sky TV.

The "free month" being an apology for somehow presiding over an almost catastrophic loss of a service that I pay handsomely for them to provide.

I'd been trying to download early versions of the very pages you're now reading to check them for any unlikely mistakes made by either me or my esteemed colleagues.

But my Wi-Fi seemed to suddenly have been reduced from a fairly steady stream of information-packed internet juice to a stuttering, mostly useless, trickle.

So I rang Sky, who provide my broadband, and spoke to the nice lady.

I am meant to get, she explained, at the very bare minimum, as per Sky's "promise", 17Mbps over Wi-Fi.

I remembered averaging about 24 – nowhere near the 64 claimed when they plugged me into their system, but as that was hard-wired speed instead of Wi-Fi, I could accept it.

Besides, we're not gamers in our house. We don't even have a console.

Streaming

The nearest we get to streaming is bingeing on Netflix or a boxset.

But we do each have a mobile and a tablet that are all Wi-Fied up to the account.

The laptop I'm tapping on is the same.

After that, there's the Alexa Echo blinking away in the corner, slyly recording every word we say.

And the smart soundbar. Attached to the smart TV.

And the smart speaker I never use but which is also plugged into a live socket in the kitchen.

In the bedroom, we've got another, almost never used TV, which itself has a Sky box pumping more Sky services into it.

Both are permanently switched on. So are the electric toothbrush chargers.

And we haven't turned off the "big telly" or its Sky Q box or any of the attached things complementing it for, quite literally, years.

In the kitchen, the washing machine remains plugged in all night despite the fact it will never, ever be used in those times.

Sure, the freezer keeps the food frozen, and the fridge keeps it chilled, but why is the microwave flashing the time at me – and, as ever, an hour out?

Or the main oven. Does it also need to know the time? Does it need to be "on" when it's doing nothing else?

Like many others of my generation, I grew up with parents who would follow me around our family home smacking the back of my hand if I left a light on.

Now, everything is on, all of the time.

And the irony is, it is the young who are now the most rapacious of energy users while simultaneously blaming my generation for their own ravenous use of electricity.

The Greta Thunberg-inspired hordes will pour milk onto department store floors and glue themselves to Tube trains.

They will pour a bucket of shit over a memorial to the late, great, Sir Tom Moore.

Daub a Churchill statue in paint. Drill through a bank's windows. All in the name of "direct action".

But try even just asking them to turn their tech off.

To save the planet, and everything.

"Not now!" they'll hiss, impatiently, pulling up their hoodies and returning instantly to their shiny screens.

"I'm trying to fix all the things YOU fked up for us."

Except for my broadband, which remains stubbornly unfixed, because, just like youthful idiots, it actually needs a grown-up to sort out.

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week SAM TYE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

I can't get enough of dog walker's bone!

Dear Sam,

I'VE fallen head over heels for a bloke I met while walking my dog – but I fear he's stringing me along.

I was in a nearby park when I first encountered this early morning pooch-walker.

I'd never seen him before but he was a real hunk in his early thirties.

He had an alsatian that started to take a close interest in my bitch – also an alsatian.

Feverish

After pulling them apart we got chatting and I discovered that he'd just moved into the area after working for a few years in the south.

We kept meeting on our morning walks and I was delighted when he finally asked me if I'd like to go out for a drink with him.

We arranged to meet at a local pub and I really enjoyed his company as we knocked back a few drinks.

We ended up back at my place and we had a few more drinks before I led him to my bedroom.

I unbuttoned his shirt to reveal a firm, well-toned torso. He pulled my sweater over my head, skillfully unbuttoned my bra and bent to kiss and suck my breasts.

Falling back on the bed, we soon stripped off and he moved his feverish tongue down between my thighs and began to lap at my shaven mound.

He moved his tongue along the length of my crack and then nibbled gently on my clit, bringing me to a shuddering orgasm.

With our shared canine interest, there was obviously only one way to continue – doggy-style.

As I crouched on all fours I could feel every inch of his thick cock sliding deep inside me.

His rhythmic pounding soon had me gushing again and after he finally shot his load we collapsed panting and exhausted on the bed.

But I wanted more and I soon got him going again when I took his limp dick in my mouth, sucking and licking him to another throbbing erection.

This time I took control, making him lie on his back before I eased myself onto his shaft.

I rode him hard and fast as I fingered my clit until he shot his hot spunk deep inside me.

We had several similar sessions and eventually he suggested that perhaps we should mate.

I was delighted as I took it to be a proposal of marriage.

But it turned out he only meant our two pedigree dogs.

What shall I do?

CJ, Cumbria

Sam says...

IF he's sending you barking mad, tell him to go walkies!

Dear Sam,

I WORK in a posh bar at a hotel and a couple of weeks ago a group of women held a school reunion there.

They all got very drunk and I got chatting to a good-looking one who had long, brown hair.

She was only 5ft tall but had a massive pair of tits and lovely arse.

At one in the morning I told them all that they would have to leave.

Everyone left except two, the woman who had caught my eye and her mate.

I reckon they were in their mid-40s – I'm only 23.

I went over to tell them to finish their drinks and noticed the one I fancied had let her skirt ride up to show the tops of her stockings.

Her mate then said: "He's looking to see if you've got any knickers on."

Then the one I fancied got my cock out. She sucked me off while her mate took a picture.

I then f*ed the other one over a table and the busty brunette took a snap of that.

They left giggling and promised to send me a copy of the snaps, but so far nothing.

What should I do?

TC, Newcastle

Sam says...

YOUR memory of it seems photographic enough.

DISHY Diana Doll says she loves to give HOMEMADE PORNO vids as presents.

The 34C lovely flaunted every inch of her figure in this nude shoot – just a taste of what she's really like in front of the camera.

Diana, 23, from Slovakia, once gave a sextape of herself to her fella as a birthday gift, after she secretly filmed them at it.

She said: "I gave him the best sex of his life, using my mouth for a while before riding him.

"When I gave him the video a few days later, he couldn't believe it – he was so excited, we put it on and re-enacted some scenes!"

ANGELA BRUCKNER

LOCKSMITH James Warner has a dream job – finding the key to Angela Bruckner's private box!

The 45-year-old often gets people out of a mess in Keele, Staffs – but it's Putney babe Angela he really wants to unlock.

Angela boasts a 34C rack and the West London stunner loves to show off her impressive figure.

James said: "I've got a very stiff rod, which I think could be the solution to prising her open!"

SHOW ME THE HONEY

WELCOME to interactive Midweek Sport – where YOU get to choose the stunna appearing on these pages!

That's right fellas, we publish sexy snaps of the babes you most want to see – TOPLESS or even NAKED.

Every Wednesday, Show Me The Honey features the cute curves of the glamour girls you're clamouring for. This service – UNIQUE to British newspapers – is TOTALLY FREE!

All you have to do is drop us an email to request@sundaysport.co.uk telling us why you want to see your favourite girl, then sit back and let us do the rest.

JAKKI DEGG

PRISON officer Paul Jackson caught an eyeful of Jakki Degg in one inmate's cell and has been obsessed with her ever since.

Paul, 43, from Greenwich, south London, can't get enough of glamour legend Jakki, from Stone, Staffs.

The guard caught a glimpse of her 32C boobs during a routine check of the cells and now wants his own topless snap of the beauty.

He said: "She's a real stunner. I'd love to get my very own photo of her so I don't keep having to check that cell – I only check it to ogle Jakki!"

Haven't seen your favourite model for a while? Drop us a note and we'll put her in the paper! Email request@sundaysport.co.uk

Champ to KO the bookies

By MIKE FRANCIS

MARHABA THE CHAMP won with plenty up his sleeve last time out at Hamilton and should take all the beating in the Watch Irish Racing On RacingTV Handicap at Nottingham.

Kevin Ryan's three-year-old was impressive in Scotland, looking very well treated on an opening handicap mark of 84.

He beat a solid yardstick in Cockalorum, pulling two and a half lengths clear, and has been raised 6lb in the process.

Given it was only his fourth outing, though, you would expect there to be a bit more to come from this son of Galileo, who is a half-brother to Queen Kindly.

Hero

He was only backing up previous promise from Ripon, where he hung markedly left off the home bend, continued to do so in the straight before edging back to his right and was only beaten a length. He looks talented.

Racegoers at Nottingham will be hoping for some 2023 Classic clues as last year subsequent St Leger hero

Eldar Eldarov made his debut in the British Stallion Studs surprise if he makes a winning debut.

Wetherby's jumps season gets under way with the Bobby Renon Handicap Chase likely to go to Pencreek.

Ben Pauling has enjoyed a fruitful summer with his small team and Pencreek himself added three victories to his tally.

He runs in the famous Gold Cup-winning colours of Mr Mulligan and while summer jumpers can often flounder in the winter off inflated marks, Pencreek might be able to buck the trend.

Shrewd

He is forgiven a below-par run in a match last time and can get back to winning ways.

Highland Frolic is a very interesting debutante for Milton Harris in the Mary Loftouse Supporting Spinal Research Juvenile Hurdle.

He cost 320,000 at Tattersalls Book One in 2020 but did not cut much ice on the Flat for John and Thady Gosden.

A half-brother to Palace Pier, if he takes to hurdling, he could be prove a shrewd acquisition.

Havanazam was beaten a short-head last time out and is taken to go one better in the Sky Sports Racing Sky 415 EBF Restricted Novice Stakes at Wolverhampton.

THE CRICKET SEASON NEVER STOPS!

Hales so happy to play with mate Ben

PAIR HAVE PUT STREET BRAWL DRAMA FIRMLY IN THE PAST

ALEX HALES denied he needed to clear the air with England captain Ben Stokes but revealed they have had a sit down in Australia to make sure they are on the same page.

The pair were once close and both involved in a street brawl outside a Bristol nightclub in 2017 that led to Stokes being charged and then acquitted of affray.

While discussing the incident in his documentary Phoenix from the Ashes, Stokes referred to Hales as "my friend at the time, Alex" and last month hinted their relationship remained frosty when quizzed about their association off the field, saying only: "We've both got the same goal to win World Cups."

Hales returned to the England fold after more than three years in international exile, having been discarded on the eve of their 2019 World Cup triumph following a positive recreational drugs test.

White-ball captain Jos Buttler claimed the recall had the backing of all players as talks were held between Hales and Stokes upon their arrival into Australia ahead of the T20 World Cup.

By JOHN ANTHONY

Hales and Stokes stood alongside one another during the national anthems ahead of the first of three T20s against Australia in Perth before briefly batting together in England's eight-run victory.

"We've sat down and had a chat," Hales said. "It's been as good as gold. At the end of the day, we're here to win a World Cup. I think that's the most important thing."

Comeback

"We've had a really good chat and things have been fine. There's been no air clearing at all, we just sat down with Jos and said our goal is to win the World Cup. It's been really good – really smooth."

Jonny Bairstow's broken leg paved the way for a comeback for Hales, who is favourite to partner Buttler at the top of the order for England's first World Cup match against Afghanistan on October 22 in Perth.

Hales vindicated his selection ahead of Phil Salt by top-scoring with 84 off 51 balls, admitting afterwards he had a few butterflies before going out to bat.

"It was a weird one," he said. "I hadn't got nervous for a long time. I don't know what it was. I put it down to jet lag or maybe the fact that's it's heading into a huge six weeks for me."

"It's something I didn't see happening a few months ago, especially with the firepower at the top of the order and to get this chance, I'm just really keen to make the most of it and enjoy myself."

"It's just a shame I haven't been around the last three years because I feel I've been playing the best cricket of my life. I've got some lost time to make up for."

As for whether the next few weeks represent the biggest of his career, he added: "I think it will be right up there."

"I want to play with a smile, hopefully get some good scores and push as hard as I can to hopefully win a World Cup."

Meanwhile, Liam Livingstone is targeting England's final T20 World Cup warm-up against Pakistan to return from an ankle injury that he feels has allowed him to have a mental refresh.

An innocuous stumble on a kerb in late August caused extensive ligament damage in Livingstone's left ankle and, although he is with England in Australia, he has a watching brief for the ongoing T20 series.

While England fear he may also miss their first World Cup match against Afghanistan in Perth on October 22, Livingstone is eyeing their practice contest five days earlier in Brisbane.

He said: "In my head I'm aiming for the warm-up game against Pakistan but if I push it too hard, too early you knock yourself back. We're trying to get that balance right; push it as hard as we can without aggravating it."

"I wouldn't want to go into a game not being 100 per cent. Ultimately, there's no selfish reasons to do that. I don't think that's the right thing for me to do and I don't think it's the right thing to do for the lads."

"We've got an unbelievable squad out here and I certainly wouldn't want to be representing my country at 90 per cent. It's improving really quickly. It's got much better quicker than I thought it was going to."

"Finally we're at the exciting part of the rehab, we're getting close and can see light at the end of the tunnel."

ED BOY TEACHES DOU A LESSON

New Eagle
learning

ODSONNE Edouard has revealed he is teaching English to his new housemate—Crystal Palace team-mate Cheick Doucoure.

Doucoure was one of Patrick Vieira's key summer signings, joining the Eagles from Lens on a five-year deal in July.

Frenchman Edouard, who scored his second goal of the season in Palace's 2-1 win over Leeds on Sunday, said moving in with the Malian midfielder was a natural fit.

"He's a French guy so I had to take him under my wing," Edouard said. "I introduced him to the team and to the people in the club. He's a guy with who it's easy to live every day.

All the players and all the staff like him, so it's great for us and for the team because he's a great player. "He helps a lot in dominating the midfield so the adaptation also worked on the pitch. He's a very good player so it's been really easy with everyone.

"However, he still needs to improve his English, but we practice, we practice, so it's going to come. He's a great fella so things are easy with him."

Doucoure, meanwhile, was grateful for the striker's support since he arrived in south London ahead of the 2022/23 season.

He said: "We spend a lot of time together. As soon as I arrived the feeling went really good between the two of us. He's a good guy, he's been here for two years now so he talks a lot with me, gives me a lot of advice."

And Doucoure is not the only one benefitting from Edouard's help.

The Frenchman has been competing with Jean-Philippe

Mateta for the centre-forward spot in Vieira's starting XI, and got the nod for Sunday's Leeds clash at Selhurst Park. It proved vital in securing Palace just their second win of the season.

The visitors pulled ahead through Pascal Struijk in the 10th minute before Edouard nodded in a fine delivery from Michael Olise and Eberechi Eze fired home a second-half winner.

"I'm really pleased," said boss Vieira. "The last couple of games we played (Edouard) was really good for us. The way he links the game, the way he's dropping, he is working as well really hard.

"And he's scoring goals, so that will build his confidence and especially as a No9, to play games, to believe in his ability and to try to bring this kind of connection with the players around."

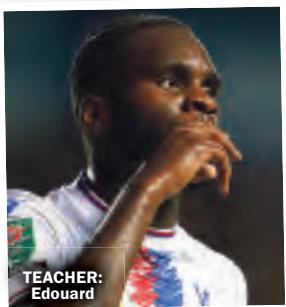

Tough

Leeds, meanwhile, have not won a Premier League match since beating Chelsea 3-0 in August.

Head coach Jesse Marsch thinks that upset, which saw the Blues go down to 10 men, has served as a double-edged sword.

"Yeah, it's a weird season," acknowledged the Whites boss. "In some ways the Chelsea game might have been bad for us, because it kind of put teams on warning that we're playing intensive and that they have to respect us a little bit more."

"But in the end, whatever. Every game in this league is tough. I believe we played better over the last five games than two points. I believe that and I know that, but in the end as a young team we still need to find ways to reward ourselves in matches."

SAMOA NOT A GOER FOR OPENER

SAMOA coach Matt Parish admits his team will be under-prepared for their opening World Cup game against England in Newcastle on Saturday.

England coach Shaun Wane has labelled the Pacific Islanders favourites for the game at St James' Park and the bookmakers agree but Parish insists the odds are stacked against his side.

"The one on the 19th of November is probably a bit more important than this one but they're all important, they're World Cup games," Parish said at the launch of the tournament.

"I'm confident we're going

to get better as the competition goes on."

While Wane has the benefit of two warm-up games, one against Fiji only last Friday, Parish says his squad has only just come together.

"We're under-done for the first game," he said. "England played a trial match while our boys were all on a plane.

"We'll have two more sessions this week and then we've got to play the opening World Cup game."

"I've no doubt we will play well."

Like Tonga before them, Samoa have been boosted by the defection of players who were set to play for tier one nations.

"It's very pleasing and humbling that they have chosen Samoa," Parish said. "They realise there's a group of young people that can do something. We've a very young squad but exciting too."

"If you look at the teams that are competing, it's by far the strongest World Cup ever, the most even, and it's exciting to be part of. We've got some confidence but got some work to do to."

"It's a big occasion and we need to rise to it. I've got no doubt they will. A lot of our boys have played in Grand Finals, we've got some young boys too, I'm confident."

Eight members of Parish's squad played in the NRL Grand Final eight days ago, including half-back Jarome Luai and winger Brian To'o who were set to be included in Australia coach Mal Meninga's World Cup squad, and the coach confirmed they will face England.

He said: "We need to get some connection with our team and find some team continuity, from that point of view we're a bit rusty but our goal is to peak further down the tournament, not on Saturday."

REALISTIC: Martinelli

Tough at the top for Gunners

GABRIEL Martinelli wants Arsenal to remain grounded after they returned to the top of the Premier League with a hard-fought 3-2 victory over Liverpool.

Bukayo Saka scored the winner from the penalty spot to send the Gunners back to the summit, with Sunday's opponents now trailing 14 points behind having pushed Manchester City all the way for the title last term.

Arsenal have enjoyed an impressive start to the season – having lost just one game against Manchester United – and are being spoken about as contenders, but Martinelli, who fired Arsenal into an early lead against Liverpool, has urged caution.

"I think we need to keep our feet on the floor and go game by game and try to win all of them," the Brazilian said.

On the game itself, Martinelli added: "I enjoyed it a lot, it was a great game and I think it's a game that everyone wants to play, not just me, I think all of the players enjoyed the game."

While Arsenal were on a high after securing the points, Liverpool boss Jürgen Klopp was downbeat and admitted his side "have problems at the moment".

The Reds were unable to snatch a point despite coming from behind twice to level the game.

Klopp said: "We have problems at the moment but because the team in form, the leader of the table...even in a really bad situation for us with early changes, we caused them real problems, so that's the truth as well."

"Of course, in a situation like ours, we play Arsenal, now we play Rangers and then we play Manchester City."

"Is that the perfect opponent for finding confidence back? Probably not."

"But we will go out there and fight and that's what we have to do and that's what we will do...we are not here for being happy with the situation we are in."

"But we work on solutions – today I saw some of them. But what you build with your hand you knock down with your backside, that's not helpful and that's what we did at Arsenal."

"That makes it obviously even more difficult but we will keep going."

TOTTENHAM STRIKER JUST WANT KEEP 'EM COMING SAYS SON

South Korean hitman happy to push through punishing fixture schedule

SON HEUNG-MIN has promised to face Tottenham's packed fixture schedule with real "happiness" and urged them to deliver in this week's crucial Champions League clash.

Spurs have started a six-week period where they play 13 games before the season pauses in November for the winter World Cup.

After an emotional victory at Brighton on Saturday, which was dedicated to late fitness coach Gian Piero Ventrone, Tottenham are preparing to face Frankfurt on Wednesday in a decisive fixture in the battle for qualification from Group D with the two clubs level on four points after three matches.

"Everyone knows how important that game is," Son said.

"I think the two home games – because we played two really difficult away games in the Champions League – we should show we're a really strong team like Saturday and it's a massive game.

The schedule it is hard to be honest. Travelling and being away from home, it's not easy. But we're born to do this and everyone dreams about it so we don't have time to complain.

"When you think about, when you're a kid what was your dream? Probably everyone is going to say 'playing in the Premier League'. So we're living the dream and we can never forget these moments.

"I know there are tired moments and it's mentally and physically really, really difficult.

"But we were born to do this, we love to do this and we should enjoy it."

"Obviously, the more you enjoy it, the more happiness will be here."

know it's tough moments but we should bring more happiness and it will be more enjoyable."

Spurs endured a difficult past week, which began with a 3-1 loss at Arsenal that had been quickly forgotten when it was revealed on Thursday that their fitness coach Ventrone had died at the age of 61.

Embrace

The highly-respected Italian had only worked at Spurs for 11 months but struck up a bond with all the squad, who boss Antonio Conte admitted were "devastated" by the news of Ventrone's death following leukaemia.

Ventrone had hit the headlines twice during recent months.

Firstly when putting the players through gruelling pre-season training runs in Seoul this summer and then again on September 17, when he shared a long embrace with Son after the South

Korean's stunning hat-trick against Leicester.

He admitted: "Gian Piero was keeping me always level and we had a really good relationship. This is not for any other people, this is for me really, really special. It just hurts talking about him."

"The week was really tough. Not only for me but every club member because he was such a special man."

"To prepare for the game was incredibly hard but we did it for him and probably he's up there looking down and he'll be very proud of us. I think he was the biggest fan for us on Saturday."

It was the trademark Son and Harry Kane combination that clinched victory on the south coast for Spurs with the latter scoring after a cross from the number seven.

While it was a 43rd goal involvement between the pair in the Premier League, it was only their second this season but the 30-year-

TOON SHAW THING

Newcastle take a good look at Luke

NEWCASTLE are sizing up a January move for Luke Shaw.

The England left-back is about to enter the final year of his contract with Manchester United.

He has been in and out of the side since Erik Ten Hag arrived at Old Trafford.

Shaw has started just

By JOHN ANTHONY

three Premier League games this season with his club boss preferring to pick new arrival Tyrell Malacia who is also four years younger.

That has alerted Toon boss Eddie Howe who would love to have England full-backs on both sides of his defence. Kieran Trippier has been a big influence down the right and he clearly thinks Shaw could be a key man on the left.

He is currently playing Dan Burn in that position but the big man is better in the middle of the defence.

January is the last chance United have to earn a fee for Shaw who can leave on a free at the end of the season. He's unlikely to commit his future to the Red Devils while Ten Hag shows little faith in him.

Unless a bidding war breaks out, Newcastle could get their man for as little as £20m, although a good show at the World Cup could see that number rise if other clubs come in.
